Student

5 Years of Learning and practicing that made me the information hungry person I am today. The most important lesson that I learned from those years was that no matter how much you think you know , you are still at the starting line.

2025-Now
Free Lancer

In 2025 I started Looking to apply my skills in the real world , and that made me realize again why did i choose this path , seeing my work being in the daily usage of other people made me appreciate every ounce of learning I have put so far. And I am still looking forward to color the world with this power and improving it into a better place.
